JANUARY PARTY AT THE WHRITNERS'

Mark down Saturday, January 18, for the annual QUAFF get-together at Bob and Mary Jo Whritner's home. This year, the party will include a "communal" brew. Bob will be using his 8-gallon system (as opposed to his other two brewing systems) to brew a pale ale (or maybe a bock, or something else). Bob will be ready to start the mash at 11:00 AM. The festivities should continue into the early evening, with the main dish at 4:00. Like the Christmas party, this will be a pot luck event, with QUAFF providing the main dish. Please bring a side dish, salad, or dessert.

As well as being a good time, this will be a great opportunity to observe a QUAFF veteran in the middle of an all-grain brew. It will be a good chance to solicit advice on brewing systems and techniques, and a good chance to try to stump Bob with difficult questions or to distract him at a critical moment.

The Whritners reside at 2605 Curie Place in San Diego, just north of the 52 Freeway and east of I-5. Exit the 52 Freeway at Regents Road and go north 1/4 mile to Pennant Way. Turn left (west) and follow Pennant Way until it ends at Stresemann Street. Turn left on Stresemann and go south about 3/8 mile to Bothe Avenue (second street on the left). Turn left on Bothe and then turn right at the third street, Curie Place. Look for 2605 on the left (south) side.

DOWNTOWN BEER FESTIVAL December 12

Sample beers from five local microbreweries at Downtown Johnny Brown's at 1220 3rd Avenue on Thursday, December 12. The festivities will begin at 5:30 in the evening. The five prominent microbreweries are AleSmith Brewing Company, Ballast Point Brewing Company, Brewers' Union, Stone Brewing Company, and Terrific Pacific. Call Ted at AleSmith (549-9888) for more details.

1997 Dues are due by December 31!

Save a stamp and bring your check for $15 to the QUAFF Holiday Party on December 17 at AleSmith Brewing!

SPENT GRAINS

Minutes from the November 19 Meeting
recorded by Greg Lorton

The meeting convened at sometime around 7:40 at La Jolla Brewing Company. Guests to the meeting included Steve Wagner (Stone Brewing Company) and his wife (Laura), and two friends of John Bell, John (Morrow?) and Tom Kelly.

Harold and Barbara Gottschalk, who recently returned from England, reported on their sojourns to a bunch of pubs and brewpubs. Harold highlighted the Roundhouse pub in the West End of London (English ales), Cafe Bohemia (Belgian beers), Finnegan's Wake (Irish beers), Dicken's Inn (English ales), the King's Head and 8 Bells (English ales), and Firkin's Brewery (English ales). (Did I get these right? - GL)

Tim reported on a tour of the Anchor Brewery in San Francisco. Although the tour was not a comprehensive one, it was worthy a pilgrimage for any beer enthusiast. He said that the tasting session that followed included all of Anchor's offerings. He also mentioned that Hop's has opened another brewpub at the former location of R.J. Riptide's. Erol mentioned that Riptide's beer recipes are now being used at Sports City Cafe and Brewery in UTC. Horace mentioned that Beverages, & more! have opened in La Mesa. The selection of craft-brewed and imported classic beers is quite large, and the prices are reasonable. (See my comments on the Encinitas Beverages, & more! in page 4. - GL)

In the Brewer's Corner discussion, Randy brought a vial of a wheat beer yeast with a real off smell. He wondered about the viability of the yeast, which was seriously questioned by all of us who smelled it. (All agreed that the smell was definitely solventy. To me it smelled like methyl ethyl ketone!)

Todd Anderson, who brought three beers to the meeting, presented an interesting comparison. He brewed two beers (a Munich Helles and a Kölsch) using identical malt and hop ingredients, but brewing one as a lager and the other as an ale. The difference in tastes between the Helles lager and the Kölsch ale was noticeable.

The traditional January Party will be held at the Whritner's on January 18 (the week before the Super Bowl). Bob is considering a new theme, perhaps a "community brew."

Dion reported on the QUAFF Camp Out, held on the weekend of November 16. Although the turn-out was quite low, those who went had a great time. Those of us who didn't, missed out on a lot of fun.

A discussion about a future pub crawl was held. Last year's pub crawl was a lot of fun, but the number of participants was well below expectations. If a pub crawl is to be held in the future, reservations will be required. Suggestions about destinations included L.A. and Orange County brewpubs, and alternatively, some of the new brewpubs and micros in San Diego County.

Skip Virgilio made the feature presentation on pale ales and American-style ales. His presentation was topped off with a tasting of AleSmith Brewing Company's newest brew, YuleSmith, an IPA.

Although Skip said the original idea was to brew only a single batch each year, Skip and Ted may reconsider this decision, based on numerous comments.

The fourth America's Finest City Homebrew Competition will be held on Saturday, March 8, at AleSmith Brewing Company. Entry fees will be $6 for the first entry, and $4 for additional entries. The entry window will be February 25 through March 4. Dion is planning a paperless entry system for those with access to the Internet.

The November Beverage List

Peter Zien	Bavarian Weisse
Todd Anderson	Kölsch
Todd Anderson	Munich Helles
Jeff Majors	Pale Ale
Rick Steele	German Altbier
Ted and Skip (AleSmith)	YuleSmith IPA
Greg and Liz Lorton	Maple Honey Dunkelweizen

Brewing To-Do List:

- Is your Hail-to-Ale entry fermenting or conditioning? It's due to QUAFF by the January 7 Board meeting! Hail-to-Ale includes Classic English Pale Ale, India Pale Ale, American-Style Pale Ale, American Amber Ale, and American Wheat Beer.
- Are you planning your Luscious Lager entry? It's time to start brewing, since the deadline is February 18, and it takes time to condition those beers. Luscious Lager includes Munich Helles, Dortmunder/European-Style Export, German-Style Pilsener, Bohemian-Style Pilsener, American-Style Pilsener, American Lager, American-Style Light Lager, American Lager/Ale or Cream Ale, American-Style Premium Lager, and American Dark Lager.
- Bock is Best follows, with entries due to QUAFF on May 6. Maybe you should think about your bock now, and figure out the best local ice cave to age it in for this spring. Bock is Best includes Traditional Bock, German-Style Helles Bock/Maibock, Doppelbock, and Eisbock.

BELGIAN EXPERTISE ADDED TO THE WEB

Founded by Don Feinberg and Wendy Littlefield and based in Cooperstown, NY, Vanber & Dewulf are the leading importers of specialty beers from Belgium and French Flanders to the U.S.. Don & Wendy began importing artisanal microbrews from Belgium in 1982, after living in Belgium for four years. When the ad agencies they worked for in Belgium transferred them back to the U.S., they obtained the importing rights to Duvel, from Moortgat brewery. Since then, the line has grown to 30 beers from 9 independent, family run breweries. They bring their informed evangelism to the Web in their new site that includes news, reviews, food pairings and merchandise for Belgian Beer Culture. Of special interest may be Don's monthly "Foaming at the Mouth," of which the most recent edition adds another perspective to the topic of our editorial this month (see below). Pictures are also available for the progress of their Belgian-style brewery covered in last month's RBP Mail. See it all at <http://www.BelgianExperts.com>

Beverages, & more!

by Greg Lorton

Beverages, & more! has opened two "superstores" in San Diego County in the last several weeks. Horace Bixby reported about the La Mesa store at the November meeting. I visited the Encinitas store on November 29, intent on buying a bag of ice for my brewing efforts of that day. I walked out with $50 worth of beer. I think my selections are indicative of the variety of beer available:

Fraoch Heather Ale (Pictish Ale from Scotland)
Samuel Smith's Winter Welcome Ale
Grimbergen Triple (Belgian Abbey)
Grimbergen Double (Belgian Abbey)
Samichlaus Swiss Winter Ale
Young's Winter Warmer
Buffalo Bill's Pumpkin Ale (brewed in Dubuque?!)
Sierra Nevada Celebration Ale 6-pack
Sam Adams Cranberry Lambic 6-pack
Bornem Triple (Belgian Abbey)

The Samichlaus beer is supposedly one of the strongest beers. I hadn't heard of the Fraoch Heather Ale (but it was pretty good). There are a tremendous variety of imported and microbrewed beers. This includes a wide variety of lambics, German wheat beers, Belgian Trappist ales, English ales, etc. All three varieties of Chimay are carried, but I couldn't find Westmalle Tripel. Compared to the local Von's (which carry a modestly impressive selection of imported and microbrewed beers), the prices at Beverages, & more are cheaper.

The store claims to carry over 1,000 brands of beer (along with wine, liquor, cigars, specialty foods, and ice). The store also has a frequent buyer club. Although I had $50 worth of beer, I had a $10 coupon (local mass mailing) and received a 50¢ on-the-spot discount by joining the Club Bev! discount club. (The Sierra Nevada Celebration Ale was reduced from $6.49 to $5.99 for a 6-pack. By the time you read this, a third store will have opened in Carmel Mountain Ranch. (See page 5 for addresses and phone numbers.)

QUAFF News

recorded by Greg Lorton

1997 will start a series on brewing processes and equipment to make good beer. The series is designed as a free-flowing exchange of ideas. The program is designed for people who want to go from extract brewing to all-grain brewing, and to let those people who brew with grains to find out how others in the club do it.

The January meeting will kick this series off, and will include a discussion of what kind of equipment is needed to move from extract brewing to all-grain. The emphasis will be on what is the minimum requirement to brew from grains, but we will get into some other readily available equipment that comes in handy. (Sophisticated mashing systems, like Dion's Recirculating Infusion Mashing System, will be presented at a later date.) Bob Whritner will facilitate the first meeting. If you've got slides, pictures, or diagrams of neat gadgets that you have used in all-grain brewing, bring them to the January meeting. Or bring the gadget itself.

Future meetings will get into infusion mashing processes and equipment, decoction mashing, wort cooling, yeast choices, and other topics of interest to the membership.

Also, in January, Erol Kilki will talk about lagers, focusing on the styles covered in the Luscious Lager Club Only contest to be held in March.

JACUMBA SPRINGS TRIP

From the Greater San Diego Brewers' Network via Dion Hollenbeck comes word that Foam On The Brain (another San Diego homebrew club) is planning a trip to Jacumba Hot Springs on January 18, 1997 (same day as the Whritners' Party!). This event will include homebrew, live music, and the hot springs. Reservations to stay at the Jacumba Hot Springs Hotel should be made through Brad Sjoborg at 582-7096. The cost for the trip is $18 for Foam On The Brain Members, and $28 for non-members (double occupancy). Kids stay in the parent's room for free. To become a member of Foam On The Brain, contact Bill Maurey, 2820 Grape Street, San Diego 92102 (phone 235-0888). The dues are $20 for singles and $25 for couples. The deadline for reservations is December 20.

Also, Foam On The Brain is planning a Tecate Brewery Tour on the same day (January 18). The tour will depart from Campo at 9:30 AM and return around 3:00 to 3:30. The tour includes the San Diego Railway Museum in Campo. The cost is $35 per person. If Foam On The Brain gets 15 or more people in the group, the cost drops to $30 per person. For reservations, call the San Diego Railway Museum at 595-3030, and mention Foam On The Brain.
